About Cork

Cork is natural, recyclable and biodegradable. No natural or man-made material replicates its properties. In a world of growing environmental awareness, the cork oak survives without the use of chemical herbicides, fertilisers or irrigation. Moreover, it's the only tree that regenerates after harvesting.

Cork retains unique qualities of flexibility, elasticity and compressibility. Its extreme resilience, impermeability, lightness and insulating efficiency make it ideal for a large number of applications, such as a closure for wine and spirits, cork is used in industries as diverse as floors (floating floor and cork tiles), shoe manufacturing, construction (insulator planks), automobiles (gaskets), leisure (fishing rods), upholstery (cork textile) and a wide range of cork finished articles (handbags, wallets, accessories). Which makes cork an unique material.

"Its extreme resilience, impermeability, lightness and insulating efficiency... makes cork an unique material"

UNDERLAYMENT

Cork Underlayment is the underlayment of choice for sound control. Forever resilient unlike the majority of synthetic underlayment membranes, it can be installed under any type floor covering.

A natural product which does not rot, it reduces and absorbs the moisture which might be created by condensation, preventing degradation of the floor covering and the subfloor.
